

June, 21, 2016

Today is National Aboriginal Day.

APUS acknowledges the ongoing colonization of Turtle Island and the continuing legacy of residential schools as we learn, research, and participate in the community at the University of Toronto. We also honour the lives of the over one-thousand missing and murdered Indigenous women and girls.

We are grateful to our Indigenous siblings in First Nations, Inuit, and Metis communities for your knowledge, teachings, research, activism, and solidarity.

We affirm that education is a right to which every member of our community should have access. We also believe that each and every member of our community has the right to be safe, to have dignity and to be respected. We believe in justice for all communities and therefore offer our solidarity and commitment to work towards access to education for all First Nations, Inuit, and Metis students, to support the Sisters In Spirit campaign, to support the 94 Calls to Action of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission, and to support the right to self-determination for all Indigenous communities.

#nad2016 #idlenomore

To get involved with supporting campaigns, please contact:

Richie Pyne
Vice-President External vpexternal@apus.ca